Ernest Hemingway, 61, Victim Of Shotgun Blast At Idaho Home

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP) — Novelist Ernest Hemingway, 61, a literary giant who ranked with the greatest of his age, died of a shotgun blast in the head Sunday.

His wife, Mary, awakened by the shot, found the body clad in pajamas just off the living room of their secluded retreat house.

She called a doctor although death apparently was instantaneous.

"Mr. Hemingway accidentally killed himself while cleaning a gun this morning at 7:30 a.m.," she said in a brief statement read to reporters by a family friend. She was taken to a hospital and given a sedative.

Coroner Ray McGoldrick said it was "a self-inflicted wound" that could have been accidental or otherwise. He said no inquest is planned unless something new develops.

Sheriff Frank Hewitt said authorities planned to talk with Mrs. Hemingway if a doctor permits.

Hemingway's violent death shocked the literary world. There were expressions of profound regret from President Kennedy to his obscure neighbors in Idaho.

To Hemingway, this was home — a quiet retreat far from the turbulent world of "Farewell to Arms", "Across the River and Into the Trees", "For Whom the Bell Tolls".

It was here that he came to hunt, relax and work. To local citizens he was as well known as the artful bearded hunter as the Nobel and Pulitzer prize winner, the author of the brilliant "Old Man and the Sea".

It was here that he worked on a new major novel, and a book of reminiscences of his youth. A close friend said Hemingway was serious when he boasted he had "a big novel, all about the land, the sea and the air" stashed away in a Cuban bank as "insurance."

It will be here that they lay Ernest Hemingway to rest in private funeral services tentatively set for Friday.

But some of the people he knew around here thought "papa" — as friends called him — seemed a bit distressed and traced it to the recent cancer death of actor

Gary Cooper, his close friend and local hunting companion.

"They're both in the barn now," Mrs. Cooper commented when she heard of the death. (Turn to HEMINGWAY, Page 7)

Crashes Mar Area's Roads On Weekend

Florida Pair Hurt In District Mishap; Local Man Injured

A Florida woman is hospitalized today with injuries received in one of four traffic mishaps on crowded area roads over the holiday weekend, the Lisbon State Highway Patrol reported.

Five were injured over the weekend, including Mrs. Bessie McGee, 55, of Nokomis, Fla., who is in "good" condition today in City Hospital.

She was a passenger in an auto driven by her husband, Claude L. McGee, 57, whose car was involved in a collision with the auto of East Liverpool man.

Mrs. McGee suffered a fractured right elbow and wrist, and an injured right ankle and nose in the mishap Saturday at 3:55 p. m. on Route 30, almost two miles north of East Liverpool.

The patrol said McGee was traveling south in a 1960 model station wagon when he ran into the rear of the 1959 model sedan of Robert L. Hall, 1579 Holliday St., East Liverpool. Hall was driving south and turning left when the mishap occurred.

McGee was treated at City Hospital for abrasions of the nose and head and contusions of the chest. Hall suffered a whiplash injury to the neck, the patrol reported.

Two were injured in another mishap Saturday at 10:05 p. m. on Route 14 east of Columbiana.

The patrol said George L. McAndrew, 24, of Washingtonville pulled into the path of Dorothy I. Davis, 27, of Pine Lake Rd., Salem.

McAndrew, who was driving north, turning east, in a 1954 model sedan sustained contusions of the head. He was cited on a charge of drunk driving, the patrol reported.

The Salem area woman received a bruised left arm and contusions of the head. She was driving west and her 1960 model sedan received extensive damage, along with McAndrew's car.

Daniel P. Miller, 21, of Alliance was cited on a charge of failure to yield the right-of-way in a mishap Sunday at 1:05 p. m. on Township Rd. 808 southeast of Alliance. The patrol said Miller pulled from a private drive into the path of M. A. Schlott, 70, of Alliance.

Death Rate Climbs

Road Toll Passes Holiday Forecast

Safety experts today cautioned motorists that traffic deaths on the nation's highways at the half-way mark in the long Independence Day weekend were running ahead of estimates.

The traffic death toll since the start of the count at 6 p. m. Friday was approximately 25 per cent higher than estimates made by the National Safety Council. The council had estimated that 450 persons might be killed in highway accidents during the 102-hour period which ends at midnight Tuesday.

If the death rate during the first half of the period continues, a council official said, the final toll could pass 550, topping the record toll of 491 during the four-day Fourth of July holiday in 1950.

"This holiday weekend is a period of extra danger," said George C. Stewart, council executive vice president. "Extra care must be exerted to meet this extra danger. We ask all drivers to take it easy, to obey the laws and to use common sense and good judgment in their driving."

With fairly pleasant weather in most of the country Sunday, millions of motorists jammed highways en route to outings and vacation spots. In one of the worst crashes, four members of a Knox City, Mo., family were killed when a station wagon in which they and six other persons were riding crashed into a bridge railing near Macon, Mo.

In last year's three-day observance of the Fourth of July, 442 persons were killed in traffic accidents. Other violent deaths included 34 in boating accidents, 126 drownings that did not involve boats, and 110 in miscellaneous type accidents, an over-all toll of 712.

In this year's four-day Memorial Day period, the traffic death toll hit 462, a record for that holiday.

For comparative purposes, The Associated Press made a survey of accidental deaths for a non-holiday weekend of the same time span as the current holiday week.

General Returns

MacArthur Given Warm Welcome By Philippines

MANILA (AP)—General of the Army Douglas MacArthur came back to the Philippines today after 15 years and got a tumultuous welcome from the young Asian nation that reveres him as its liberator and defender.

It was another triumphant return for the 81-year-old soldier who led the liberating American forces against the Japanese during the last war to avenge the bitter Filipino-American defeat he suffered at Corregidor and Bataan.

MacArthur arrived at Manila International Airport on a special U.S. military jet provided by President Kennedy for a 10-day sentimental journey to the Philippines, which he has "known so long and loved so well."

The Philippine government brushed protocol aside to give

MacArthur a welcome usually reserved for chiefs of state. Sharing it with him were his wife, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, a longtime aide, and the Philippine ambassador to the United States, Carlos P. Romulo, and his wife.

President and Mrs. Carlos P. Garcia were at the airport to welcome the illustrious old soldier. The country's top officials and members of the foreign diplomatic corps also were on hand. Full military honors were given MacArthur, who once commanded the Philippine army.

Many thousands more lined the motorcade route leading to Malacanang Palace, Garcia's residence where MacArthur will stay. The airport was splashed with American and Filipino flags. A huge banner proclaimed "Welcome, mabuhay (long live) General MacArthur."

Berlin Poses War Threat, General Says

Ex-Chief Proposes Nation Mobilize To Emphasize Danger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Thomas D. White, retired Air Force chief of staff, says "there is a fair chance" of war breaking out over Berlin.

And as one way of emphasizing the danger to Americans he suggested a partial mobilization.

"I don't think we have had a very firm expression of the determination of the American people," said White, who stepped down as Air Force chief just three days ago. "Mobilization of some kind might well be such a method of bringing it home to the people that we must be solidly behind the President."

White, interviewed Sunday on the NBC-TV program Meet the Press, said if the Soviets or East Germans tried to blockade Berlin again, he would be in favor of breaking it with a ground attack rather than going over it with an air lift. He added, "Maybe we ought to do it both ways."

Asked if he thought a Berlin war was certain to turn into a nuclear war, White replied no.

But he said, "I think that if the Soviet Union should join in, it is almost inevitable that it would degenerate into a general war. I don't see how two great nations can stake their entire prestige, their national policy against each other and either one back down."

In New York, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon warned Sunday against weakening the U.S. position on Berlin.

He said a compromise would be "disastrous for us and for the whole free world."

It is "essential that President Kennedy shoot down any trial balloons, whether from legislative leaders or from allies abroad, indicating that our position on Berlin will be compromised or softened."

Nixon, interviewed on a taped radio show, said any new spending for domestic purposes not related to national defense should be shelved.

Like White, two Republican senators talked Sunday of a "partial mobilization of American armed strength" or an increase in forces in West Berlin.

Sen. Jacob J. Javits, R-N.Y., said he assumed Kennedy "might be ready to declare or ask the

Gen. Chang Resigns In Korea Move

Military Chief Quits Top Posts In North Korea Junta Switch

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young resigned today from the top posts in South Korea's military government. Maj. Gen. Pak Chung-hi, generally credited with being the strongest man of the regime, was named head of the ruling junta.

Chang's other job of premier was assigned to retired Lt. Gen. Song Yo-chan, burly 6-foot defense minister who was army chief of staff when President Syngman Rhee was overthrown last year.

Chang in a statement said he was resigning because South Korea needs "a leader who is more aggressive and who commands great respect and confidence at home and abroad."

It was generally assumed, however, that he had lost in a struggle for power within the top military leadership.

The resignation was announced after an emergency Cabinet session at which Chang arrived flanked by a heavy guard of 20 plainclothesmen. He left the Capitol building after the meeting under heavy guard, also, but a

Kuwait Kept Under Guard Against Iraq

British Protecting Oil Sheikdom As U.N. Sifts Claims

KUWAIT (AP) — More than 2,000 British troops stood guard in Kuwait today, ready to counter any move by Iraq against the little sheikdom.

The last of the commandos and paratroopers arrived Sunday night, completing a two-day landing operation that sparked cries of protest from the controlled press of the Soviet Union and the United Arab Republic.

A force of Saudi Arabian troops also arrived to bolster Kuwait's defense, local military sources said. Its size was not disclosed.

The government dispatched a three-man mission to the United Nations security council in New York to argue Sheikh Abdullah As-Salim As-Sabah's charge that Iraq's claim to Kuwait threatens the independence of the little territory, under which lies the world's largest proven oil reserve.

(Britain told the Security Council her forces would go into action)

President Weighing Move To Force Halt In Interest Of U.S.

BULLETIN
NEW YORK (P)—The federal government today went into court seeking a Taft-Hartley injunction to end the 18-day maritime strike.

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—The Cape Cod White House indicated today that Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg has recommended that President Kennedy invoke a Taft-Hartley Law injunction to halt the maritime strike.

Newsmen were told that Goldberg and Kennedy began conferring on the shipping strike at 9:50 a.m. on the patio of the President's summer home here.

A White House announcement added merely: "It appears that Secretary Goldberg would recommend the use of the Taft-Hartley Law."

Goldberg brought with him a report from the fact-finding board appointed by Kennedy to determine whether the strike, now in its 18th day, imperils the national health and safety.

Goldberg flew to the Cape Sunday night after a conference at Newark, N.J., with chairman David L. Cole and other members of the fact-finding board Kennedy appointed a week ago.

Kennedy set up the board as the first step in machinery provided by the Taft-Hartley Act to stop the strike for an 80-day cooling off period.

The next step would be to instruct his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, to seek a court injunction requiring the maritime workers to man the country's merchant fleet once again.

Asst. Atty. Gen. William Orrick Jr. was understood to be standing by in New York City to file the

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I remove some rust from an old knife blade?

A. When rust has been allowed to remain on a knife blade for a long time, you can remove it by sticking the blade upright into an onion and leaving it there for some time. The blade will then clean with an ordinary scouring.

Q. How can I treat a broom to make it last longer?

A. Soak the broom in boiled salt water about every two weeks, and it will last about twice as long as ordinarily.

Q. How can I make a good linoleum polish?

A. Mix one cup of melted paraffin, two cups of kerosene, and three tablespoons of turpentine.

Q. How can I prevent olive oil from becoming rancid?

A. Add a small amount of sugar to the oil.

Q. How can I improvise some starch for some garments that require just a little stiffening?

A. Try using the water in which some rice has been boiled.

Q. How can I remove old blood stains from fabric?

A. Old blood stains can be removed by wetting with cold water and covering thickly with powdered starch. Let stand for an hour or two, and then wash.

Q. How can I renovate some rusted metalware?

A. Dip it into some pure cider vinegar, then let it dry for a few days. Wipe away the remaining loosened rust particles.

Husband Held In Slaying Of Lima Mother

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — A Lima mother of 12 was shot fatally Sunday night, and about an hour afterward her husband turned himself in to the Allen County sheriff.

Mrs. Ruth Smith, 43, was killed instantly when a bullet from a .32 caliber special revolver pierced her heart. Held on an open charge in the case is her husband, Cooper Lee Smith, 43. Mrs. Smith was shot in a bedroom hallway of their home, while three of the couple's young children were present and two-year-old twins slept in a bedroom.

A. H. Grady, police detective inspector, reported that Smith claimed the gun went off as he and his wife struggled for possession of the weapon. The children who were home at the time offered varying versions, Grady added.

The officer said that the Smith couple had argued Saturday afternoon in downtown Lima, and Mrs. Smith had spent that night with neighbors. She returned home yesterday and took two sons to church to be baptized. Smith, away most of the day, came to the four-room apartment later, and another argument ensued.

Lima Memorial Hospital, where the victim was taken last night, reported that Mrs. Smith apparently was expecting a 13th child. Inspector Grady said no one, including the husband, knew of this so far as could be determined.

Freeman Eyes Commission
For Help With Farm Setup

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman is expected to turn to the National Agricultural Advisory Commission for advice on how to cope with a congress that shows reluctance to go along with Kennedy administration farm proposals.

The first meeting of the commission under the new administration has been scheduled for July 11. It was organized early in the Eisenhower administration with 18 members to advise Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson on farm policies and programs.

President Kennedy recently set up a new commission with 25 members, headed by Harry B. Caldwell, master of the North Carolina State Grange. On it are two former Democratic secretaries of agriculture, Claude R. Wickard and Charles F. Brannan.

The first meeting of the commission will be held at a time when Congress is balking at major farm program proposals advanced by Kennedy and Freeman. Both are the Senate and House agriculture committees have rejected a plan under which the secretary of agriculture and farmer advisory committee would be authorized to draft commodity supply stabilization programs subject to congressional veto.

If this becomes the final position of Congress, Freeman may have to turn to present laws and powers to develop stronger supply control programs than currently exist.

Congress is giving the administration programs with which to meet the most pressing farm commodity problems — surpluses of wheat and feed grains.

But in meeting future problems, it may become necessary for the secretary to make broader and bolder use of his price support authority to prevent overproduction. Existing law permits the secretary to set conditions for eligibility for price supports. He could attach production limitations to the supports. That is, he could say that only producers who cooperated with a control program would be eligible for supports.

He could not force compliance. Producers who wished to exceed limitations could do so if they passed up supports. Because of this, a control program based solely on supports would be less effective than only employed marketing quotas carrying penalties for non-cooperators.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I patch holes in linoleum?

A. Scrape some chips or shavings from a scrap piece of linoleum of the same color as your damaged linoleum, and press these tightly into the hole, using a little waterproof household cement as your binder. After the cement has dried, rough spots in the patch may be smoothed off with some fine sandpaper.

Q. How can I clean kid gloves?

A. Put the gloves on the hands, then wash in spirits of turpentine in the same manner as when washing the hands. When clean, hang the gloves in a warm place, or where there is a current of air.

Q. How can I make a good oak stain?

A. Mix one part of boiled linseed oil, three gills of turpentine, six tablespoons of raw umber, and six tablespoons of whiting.

Q. How can I train vines to grow in the right direction on a wall without the use of unsightly sticks and strings?

A. Just attach the stem of the vine temporarily to a dry surface, such as the side of the house, garage, or trellis, with wads of soft modeling clay or freshly-chewed gum, or with small pieces of waterproof adhesive tape.

Q. What is a quick and easy way to sharpen a knife?

A. Fold a piece of emery paper in the center and draw the knife rapidly back and forth several times.

Hijackers Force Cuban Plane To Land In Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Aerial hijackers shot a Cuban militiaman riding as guard aboard a Cuban airliner today and forced the pilot to fly to Miami.

Police threw a cordon around the plane when it landed, and the 16 passengers were hustled into immigration at Miami International Airport. Newsman were not allowed to talk to them immediately.

The unidentified Cuban pilot reportedly told immigration authorities that the shooting broke out in the cabin a few minutes after he took off on a flight from Havana to Varadero Beach, Cuba.

One hijacker put a gun to the pilot's head and told him to fly to Miami, he said.

An immigration official said three passengers and the crew said they wanted to return to Havana. Thirteen passengers reportedly wanted to remain in Miami. The militiaman was reported seriously wounded.

Court Drops Check Count

Charges filed against a Steubenville couple for issuing a fraudulent check were dismissed this morning in Municipal Court at the request of a supermarket manager after the couple made restitution of $50.

The charges had been filed against Jerry DeNicola and his wife, Lois, by Glenn F. Thorne, manager of the Dresden Ave. store of Loblaw's, Inc.

The couple explained to Judge Samuel M. Chertoff the $50 check, written on the Grant Building office of the Pittsburgh National Bank and dated June 2, had bounced when DeNicola neglected to tell his wife he had cashed another check.

The court was told that DeNicola, a beverage salesman, is given two $50 checks when he begins his trips each week and cashes them if he needs funds.

On this occasion, the couple said DeNicola cashed the check at Loblaw's and forgot to notify his wife. He then also cashed the second check, leaving the account overdrawn.

They showed the court deposit slips, one dated late in May and the other dated June 5, three days after the check to Loblaw's was cashed.

The warrants for their arrests were filed June 28 and turned over to Steubenville police. They posted bond in Steubenville for their appearance here.

'Basis Of Hope' In Latin America

Among all the men who have tried to steer a proper course in Latin America, the latest being Adlai Stevenson, there is one point of agreement.

The United States cannot hope to claim Latin Americans as friends of the kind of freedom that flourishes under its version of representative democracy while the kind of poverty that flourishes under the Latin American version of representative democracy persists.

Ambassador Stevenson has come home from his South American tour with the theory that Cuban exiles be used to "expose" Castroism in Latin America. These people would know most about the Castro regime. Their testimony would be the most convincing, therefore. But isn't Mr. Stevenson missing the main point of Castroism?

It did not catch hold in Cuba because all Cubans mistrusted it. It did not fire the imagination of the "shirtless ones" because they thought it was amusing. And it is not continuing to hold the support of Cubans who are loyal to Castro because they have developed ideological affinity for the Communist Conspiracy. Cubans are not converts to communism.

Castroism flared in Cuba like a torch in a dry cornfield because it gave Cubans who never had it before a "basis of hope." Ambassador Stevenson's own phrase for what must be given all South Americans before they will be less interested in Castro than in moves to discredit Castro.

Castro will not be idle in the meantime. Reports already are coming out of Cuba about the tangible "basis of hope" he has given many Cubans who never lived in a decent home, wore decent clothes, or had decent food. This proof of sympathy is the sinew and steel of all revolutionary movements based on the desperation of the poor. Ultimately, it will be the sinew and steel of anti-Castroism, when Castroism has failed to do what it has promised to do.

But meanwhile it has promised to do what those opposing Castro never even promised to do—give Cuba's "shirtless ones" something to look forward to except a lifetime of shirtlessness.

Newburgh Policy Struck Sparks

If one reaction could be depended on when the city council of Newburgh, N. Y., adopted a tough policy on city relief the other day, it was the indignation of professional social workers.

The reaction was accelerated by the coincidence that the New York Public Welfare Association had a convention scheduled last week while the Newburgh policy was still in the news. Resolutions calling the council action "dictatorial" and "inhuman" were forthcoming promptly when the convention began.

Newburgh's decision to bar from further relief women who bore further children out of wedlock after having been warned brought this typical reaction: that "denial of assistance to children because of their birthright is both inhumane and unacceptable to the people."

Instead of acknowledging that this is one of the serious abuses of public relief and could be curtailed by self-discipline, the resolution framers took the attitude that bearing illegitimate children is not a conscious act but a social accident that others must pay for, for the sake of the children.

In this and the other reforms, the community and the state have joined an issue. The community wants to bring relief policy under local control. It wants to put a limit on relief. It wants to make persons on relief perform work for their allowances. It wants to administer the relief it can afford.

The state, on the other hand, wants to make Newburgh administer relief according to statewide standards. By threatening to withhold state payments unless Newburgh complies with their ideas, moreover, the state's social workers may be able to override Newburgh's local autonomy.

This is not Newburgh's issue, in other words. It is the issue in every community with the impulse to face up to the fact that relief has turned into something more troublesome than merely accepting responsibility for people who need help; that some people on relief never will help themselves as long as they can get help from the public.

Do-It-Yourself Farm Plan Dead

The Senate Agriculture Committee and the House Agriculture Committee have had no trouble seeing eye to eye on killing the Kennedy administration's farm plan.

This was the startling idea that farm commodity groups should be given authority to draft programs of control, price support and marketing programs, submit them to Congress for consideration and, if nothing happened in 60 days, to put the programs into effect.

This do-it-yourself version of agriculture control had two faults:

1. It violated the principle of government in a republic, which delegates certain powers to the federal government but does not provide for their re-delegation to economic minorities. The same error was made in the early days of the New Deal, when economic minorities under the National Recovery Act were given power similar to that given to economic minorities in Fascist Italy.

2. Congress came to regret its wrongheadedness in passing the National Recovery Act and its companion measure, the Agricultural Adjustment Act. It is in no mood to experiment again with delegations of legislative authority. Congress guards its prerogative of making law; this has been its historic position. The Kennedy administration's farm plan was an affront to legislative authority.

EVERY PRESIDENT learns sooner or later that the oldest and deepest issue in U.S. government is this standoff between the executive and legislative branches, which sometimes becomes a standoff between the judicial branch and one or both of the other branches.

This is the protection for popular sovereignty built into the Constitution by balancing government power among three equal branches. Any indication of trespass on the authority of another branch becomes an issue automatically. Congress is not about to abdicate its authority to agricultural blocs that would be dominated by agents of the executive power. If it did so, it would have to be called to account by the Supreme Court, in exactly the same way it was called to account early in the New Deal for defying the Constitution with the NRA and AAA programs that it rubber-stamped and regretted afterward.

This is not a rubber-stamp Congress. The Kennedy do-it-yourself farm plan is dead, as far as its principal feature is concerned.

The Frame That Fits Eichmann

During the trial of Adolf Eichmann, the prosecution and defense have fitted him into many frames of reference.

He has been held up to inspection as a military puppet. But he was not one of Hitler's goose-steppers. He was never a soldier.

He has been exhibited as a sadist. But that didn't seem plausible, either. He was cruel and certainly he was heartless. But he was not systematically interested in causing human suffering.

Sometimes he has been depicted as an efficiency expert in travel arrangements for millions of people taking their last journey on earth. That, too, leaves something to be desired. Efficiency in evil is not efficiency.

It is ridiculous, of course, for the man to claim he was really a friend of the Jews he was helping to destroy. If he had been their friend he would have blown his brains out.

The Once Over

New York may ask for Taft-Hartley proceedings to get 90-day cooling off period between Mayor Wagner and former associates. Bob is sending in substitutes before the whistle blows for the big game. In another sense he is choosing a ticket while wearing roller skates on revolving floor.

Everything in the New York campaign is as peaceful, orderly and easy to follow as a row in the United Nations or a truce in Laos. (We don't see why Dag Hammarskjöld isn't called in.)

Coming election will be settled by direct question "If elected will you serve full term?" and by a direct answer. Suspicion is that Bob would go into orbit around Washington senatorial belt at right moment.

In Gotham election, mayor is battling Tammany Hall bosses, former close associates, unwritten laws and stereotyped routines. Looking at the picture you get the impression of fight between two teams made up entirely of Jimmy Piersall's after being beam-balled.

Before it is over one side or the other may be taking opponents as prisoners and offering to exchange them for tractors.

Lawrence Georsia will run on a promise of rigid economy and saving money. This is enough to kill any candidate in these days when nobody seems to care.

Paul Screvane will run as a man who will appease public fears when somebody looks out the window and says "It's snowing again."

Abe Stark will stand firmly on the pledge "I am in a city political fight, not a checkers game."

To Mr. and Mrs. Voter it is a question whether Mayor Wagner is staging a campaign for reelection or introducing his own version of "The Guns of Navarone."

Why Doesn't He Give Up?

To The Spirit Of Missouri!

By Raymond Moley

Considering the manner in which we writers for the free press of America on all occasions whack the governments of our cities, states, and nation and the political figures who occupy the seats of power therein, it is rarely indeed that we receive official honors therefrom.

A certain lack of appreciation for our devotion to efficiency and economy by those targets of our disesteem is quite to be expected. For in their exalted official position they are more or less sitting ducks inviting those whose function is to criticize and oppose.

About the only honor that I have received in my years of journalism was the bestowal of a colonel's commission some years ago by the governor of Kentucky.

Now I speak from a heart overflowing with gratitude, because I am the recipient of an even greater award.

The Senate of the great Commonwealth of Missouri passed and officially inscribed for me and my posterity a resolution commending me for a piece which appeared in the newspapers during the final week of May.

IN THAT COLUMN I commended the fine spirit of independence displayed by the citizens of McDonald County, Missouri because of a slight imposed upon their three cities by a state department which published literature describing Missouri's major points of interest.

Under the forthright leadership of the state senator representing McDonald County, those citizens announced an intention to secede from the state and to establish a commonwealth within a commonwealth.

The plans included the selection of a territorial president, an attorney general, and secretary of the interior.

More imaginative minds conceived the idea of issuing passports and postage stamps.

The resolution adopted on June 1 duly notes my tribute to Missouri's Spirit of 1776, my recognition of the pride and self-reliance which still lives in the very heart of a nation in which welfare and dependence have all but undermined our national character and also discernment of the fact that in the true character of Americans their capacity to enjoy a joke even at their expense is undiminished.

All joking aside through such demonstrations as this, Americans are showing that what our statesmen at the national level are hailing in the uprising of the undeveloped countries of the world comes from principles which we ourselves believe and practice.

IT HAPPENED that in the early morning after I received this resolution from the secretary of the senate of Missouri, I traveled in a taxi the length of Park Ave. on my way to work.

I saw a group of men moving briskly along the sidewalk. They were some sleepy newsmen trying to keep pace with a snappy figure with gray hair and a face smiling at the morning sun.

It was no less than the one-time President of the United States, a citizen who comes approximately from the city of Independence, Mo.

It takes real fortitude to set at defiance the old New York maxim, "Early to bed and early to rise, and you don't meet any prominent people." But Harry S. Truman is able to do this even in the very heart of decadence and luxury.

We may and should criticize his vicious jibes at "plutocracy" and Republicanism, we may question his taste in language.

We may also attack his lack of consistency in his insistence upon a homespun philosophy while he partakes of the publishers' King's Shilling. But no one who knows the meaning of two-party politics can question his conviction that the role of a political opponent is to attack the opposition.

Did 'Packing' Help?

By William F. Arbogast

(In January, a test of wills erupted between two strong-willed Democrats—House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Rep. Howard W. Smith, chairman of the House Rules Committee. The bone of contention: Control of the committee and the flow of legislation. William F. Arbogast, chief of the Associated Press' House staff, tells how Rayburn won the battle but may have lost the war.)

WASHINGTON Some Democrats who helped "pack" the House Rules Committee last January to break the control of a conservative coalition are beginning to wonder if they made a mistake.

On the basis of committee statistics, they have good reason to wonder.

The "packing"—ordered by a 217-212 vote of the House—increased the committee membership from eight Democrats and four Republicans to 10 Democrats and five Republicans. It was engineered by Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., with the support of the Kennedy administration. Its purpose was to prevent the committee from bottling up legislation and denying the House a chance to vote on it.

After the increase, voting control of the committee was held by eight Democrats friendly to Rayburn and the Kennedy administration. Previously, it was exercised by two Democrats, Chairman Howard W. Smith of Virginia and William M. Colmer of Mississippi, along with the four Republicans. Between them they had enough votes to beat any motion to send legislation to the floor. Such a motion loses on a tie vote.

Smith, who headed the old conservative coalition and fought the increase, has compiled some statistics indicating that the committee isn't performing according to Rayburn's plans.

During the first six months of the present session, Smith's statistics show, the committee has sent to the House for a vote 39 bills and resolutions. During the first six months of the opening session of the last Congress, the coalition-controlled committee cleared 55 bills and resolutions for House action.

"We were much more fruitful before we were packed," Smith told a reporter.

Biggest bills now bottled up in the committee deal with assistance to schools, both public and private. One of them, a general public school assistance measure, ranks high on Kennedy's program. It may never get out of the committee because the Democrats nominally in voting control have split.

Two of the liberal Democrats, both Catholics, have refused to clear a public school bill until the committee approves a bill to help private and parochial schools. Three Southern Democrats who normally follow Rayburn's wishes have indicated they won't approve the parochial aid bill. And the Perhaps best of all, however, in this city in which the best hours of the day are dedicated to sleep, a few newspapermen are compelled to experience the tonic of the early morning hours.

So my gratitude to the Senate of Missouri, and hail to Missouri's noted citizen. And my hope that New York and the television industry will not enfeeble this citizen of Independence.

SMITH recalled that when the rules fight was nearing a climax last January, he proposed a compromise by which he agreed to clear for House action five major bills on the Kennedy program, if the size of the committee were not increased.

Rayburn's forces rejected the offer and insisted on assurance from Smith that he would clear all Kennedy bills. Smith turned down the counteroffer, and the committee was enlarged. The public-school bill was one of the five involved in Smith's original compromise offer.

As for the sweet cherry tree on the other side of the house, we don't get even that many cherries. Birds fly in from miles around to strip it clean. The tree is old and big, which gives the winged cherry-pickers the best of it.

Yet, when we first moved to the present Twillery we made a big point of owning these sweet cherries, too, and the birds were equally unimpressed. They always know with their infallible instinct who "owns" such things as cherry trees, strawberries and wild blackberries.

Every year I take a turn around to spot the wild blackberries that are shaping up. And every year when I think it's time for them to be ripe I go back and find nothing left but the little nubs where the berries were before the birds harvested the blackberry crop.

Strawberries once were to have been a big thing at the Twillery, but between birds, chipmunks, rabbits and weeds, they never panned out. When we want strawberries, we buy them from someone who regards them as a money crop and takes care of them.

That may be what happened to me — this decision to let professionals take care of these matters and to take myself out of competition with the elements and the birds. That may be what has happened to a lot of people like me.

The Equality Of Man

Irony Underlines Independence Day Celebration

WASHINGTON Just 185 years ago Tuesday Congress let loose a revolutionary idea it didn't fully believe itself, a fact which makes it a little easier to understand the revolutions of today.

This was the idea: "That all men are created equal . . . with inalienable rights . . . among them life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Neither Congress, which approved those words in the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776, nor Thomas Jefferson, who wrote them, really believed "all" men are created equal.

They believed, in George Orwell's phrase, that some people are more equal than others.

The Declaration calmly ignored slavery, with which the colonies were loaded at the time. Even Jefferson, troubled though he was about human bondage, had slaves of his own and considered Negroes inferior.

The Founding Fathers, following the Declaration with the Constitution ratified in 1790, still didn't consider "all" men equal. Their Constitution not only didn't end slavery, it permitted slaves to be imported until 1808.

All this was done neatly, without once mentioning slaves or slavery.

"The failure to use either word is significant," Burton J. Hendrick wrote in 1937 in his book on the Constitution, "Bulwark of the Republic," but "it betrays the sense of apology, of shame, with which the makers approached a dangerous and even disagreeable subject."

It took a civil war to wipe out slavery. But even that couldn't establish as a fact in all American minds the high-sounding words in the declaration about men being equal.

The proof: Tuesday millions of Americans who rejoice in celebrating the stirring words in the Declaration of Independence still practice discrimination and segregation against Negroes, even perhaps while they celebrate.

The lesson from it all—applicable to what has happened here and is happening around the world now—is that when men, any group of men, white, black or yellow, have power they don't yield it easily, but abuse it.

Some recent examples: what the Negro strong men have done to one another in the Congo; what the Chinese Reds did to the people of Tibet; the Russian Communists' control of the satellite peoples of Europe and their savage suppression of the Hungarians who protested.

Out Of Competition

By Truman Twill

Whether this is something that's happening only to me or something happening to all people like me isn't easy to decide.

But this morning when I looked out the bedroom window and saw a gang of purposeful birds gung at the ripening cherries in the top of the cherry tree, I wished them a pleasant good morning and never gave them another thought.

This is in contrast with an attitude of possessive rage that caused me to shoot at the marauders years ago and to compete fiercely with them for the cherry crop year by year. Today it seems monumentally unimportant that we get enough cherries away from the birds for a pie each year.

As for the sweet cherry tree on the other side of the house, we don't get even that many cherries. Birds fly in from miles around to strip it clean. The tree is old and big, which gives the winged cherry-pickers the best of it.

Yet, when we first moved to the present Twillery we made a big point of owning these sweet cherries, too, and the birds were equally unimpressed. They always know with their infallible instinct who "owns" such things as cherry trees, strawberries and wild blackberries.

Every year I take a turn around to spot the wild blackberries that are shaping up. And every year when I think it's time for them to be ripe I go back and find nothing left but the little nubs where the berries were before the birds harvested the blackberry crop.

Strawberries once were to have been a big thing at the Twillery, but between birds, chipmunks, rabbits and weeds, they never panned out. When we want strawberries, we buy them from someone who regards them as a money crop and takes care of them.

That may be what happened to me — this decision to let professionals take care of these matters and to take myself out of competition with the elements and the birds. That may be what has happened to a lot of people like me.

We've been hammered down to size by the realization we cannot make the universe meet our specifications. Some of us have gone beyond that and begun to think we should worry about coming up

In this country the white men, outnumbering the Negroes, had the power to refuse them equal treatment and, for a long time, even freedom from slavery. For generations the Western nations, not because of their numbers but because of their military power, kept many millions of people in colonial subjection and exploited them.

Good example: The ignorance in which the Belgians kept the Negroes of the Congo.

Around the world as men in the backward nations began to understand a little more about equality and freedom, and as the Western nations grew weaker, the colonial period began to end.

But not quite. Look at Portugal's suppression of the natives in Angola and the long struggle of the people in Algeria to free themselves of the French. Perhaps the best break the backward peoples ever got was the result of power.

In this case it was a power struggle between the West and communism struggling for their allegiance, in some cases just for their neutrality, revolution is encouraged, restlessness has an outlet, hope is revived for a better life than their ancestors had.

For a landless Latin American peasant—hungry, sick and without a future—it holds no terror for him to hear that if he buys communism he will lose freedom when his only freedom now is freedom from a decent life that could be his with better planning, a better share in the wealth of his native land.

He knows, unless there is tremendous change, there will never be a chance for him to become equal to the absent millionaire who owns the land he works.

For just as the words equal and liberty didn't quite mean the same thing to the men who signed the Declaration of Independence as they may to some Americans today, freedom to a well-fed and healthy man in a prosperous nation may not mean the same as it does to a sick man with three hungry children in Brazil or Laos or Africa.

Now, more than ever in its history, the American republic is under challenge to make words like equal and liberty come true, this time not only for white Americans but for men of all colors, and not only at home but around the world.

It's either this or face destruction since an America surrounded by a Communist world can hardly hope to be equal to its more numerous foes or free to do anything more than yield or die.

to the specifications of the universe.

In my own case, I have quit begrudging anything to the furred, feathered and haired-over creatures who have equal and, in some instances, prior rights. I do not believe in killing creatures that are not meant to be killed, and my basis of judgment is my own, not borrowed from anyone else. But for sure I do not kill birds.

The birds are welcome to the cherries. They're welcome to anything their instinct tells them to use. The rabbits are welcome to whatever they come across that helps them survive, too, and if I don't want them to eat bark off small trees I can always protect the trees with screen cloth.

Dogs that run amuck are not welcome to my sheep because they don't need to eat sheep and, in fact, kill them only for the savage joy of the kill. And if I had chickens, I would not be sharing them with possums, foxes and skunks — not if I could help it. But birds are welcome to cherries.

I'm apologetic because the cherry crop this year isn't what it should be, and I may have to buy cherries at the store and tie them on the tree to keep the birds from thinking I've let them down.

Police Probe Fight Hurting 2 Local Men

East Liverpool police today are continuing investigation of a riverfront fight Sunday afternoon in which one man was struck on the head and another was stabbed.

The victims are William Figley, 64, of 229 Rural Ln., who suffered a three-inch cut on the right side of the head and also apparently was the victim of a cerebral hemorrhage, and James Taylor, 54, of 1925 Smithfield St., who complained he was wounded with a knife. No charges have been filed.

Both men are in "fair" condition today at City Hospital. Taylor was stabbed in the abdomen and several stitches were required to close the wound, hospital authorities said.

Police first learned of the incident at 3:23 p. m. yesterday. Patrolmen Jack Strobel and William McDaniel said they were dispatched to the river bank at the end of W. 4th St. on a report a man was lying there.

When they arrived, they found Figley, who was being placed in an ambulance to be taken to the hospital. Figley told the officers he had been in a fight with Taylor and had been struck on the head with some unknown object. Figley related that he "pulled a knife on Taylor, but didn't use it," officers said.

A physician who examined Figley at the hospital said he had suffered a hemorrhage in addition to the head wound, police said.

Taylor was found about 6:54 p. m. hiding in the outdoor privy of a home on the River Rd., police said. The officers took him to the hospital. He related that he had been stabbed by Figley during a fight, then walked away from the scene, officers said.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I insure paint's adhering to concrete floors?

He served two years with the Marine Corps. He is a member of the faculty and coaching staff of the high school.

Jeannie Wandle Becomes Bride In Services At Lisbon

LISBON — The chapel of the First Presbyterian Church was the setting for the candlelight wedding of Miss Jeannie Wandle and Dean Smith Friday evening at 7.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Schmidt of West Maple St. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith of R. D. 3 are parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. Paul T. Gerrard officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Open church was observed.

Twin vases of summer flowers graced the altar banked with palms and ferns. Two seven-branch candelabra lighted the chancel.

John Snyder, soloist, sang "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer" with Mrs. Theodore Greener at the organ.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride chose a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over satin, the fitted bodice featuring long pointed sleeves and scalloped neckline enhanced with pearl and sequin trim. Worn over hoops, tiers of nylon and lace ruffles alternating formed front and back panels of the skirt with over-drape of lace.

An orange blossom wreath held her four-tier veil of silk illusion edged in lace. White carnations and stephanotis tied with white satin streamers formed her crescent bouquet. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

The maid of honor was Miss Betty Wandle, sister of the bride. She was attired in a street-length dress of silk organza in pink with fitted bodice, scoop neckline and short sleeves. The overlay of the bouffant skirt was caught up at the bottom to form ruffles of self material. A matching picture hat completed the ensemble. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations with cascading satin streamers.

Misses Charlotte Childs and

Charlene McKams were the bridesmaids and were dressed identically to the maid of honor but in yellow and green. Their crescent bouquets were of pink carnations with satin streamers matching their gowns.

Keith Smith served his brother as best man and Ronald Reeder and Dennis Deem were ushers.

Mrs. Schmidt wore a beige lace dress with white accessories and the bridegroom's mother chose a brown and white print nylon dress with white accessories. Their corsages were of pink roses.

Some 200 guests attended the reception in the social room. The bride's table laid in white silk cloth was centered with a four-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal pair. The attendant's bouquets accented the table decorations.

Mrs. Ronald Crawford, the bride's sister; Mrs. James McLaughlin of Columbiana, the bridegroom's sister, and Mrs. Dennis Deem and Miss Shirley Swearingen served.

Mrs. Keith Smith, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, registered guests from East Liverpool, Salem, Wellsville, Canton, Dolphin, Winona, Dover, Danville, Negley, Leetonia, Salineville, Hanoverton, Columbiana, Rogers, Lisbon and Strabane, Pa.

Members of the wedding party were feted Thursday night at the bridegroom's home following rehearsal at the church. The attendants were remembered with gifts.

Files Used By Eichmann In Testimony

By THOMAS A. REEDY
JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann's lawyer today introduced a Nazi Foreign Ministry document to show that the former Gestapo officer handled the deportation of Jews from Hungary in 1944 under orders from both the Foreign Ministry and the SS (Elite Guard).

Defense counsel Robert Servatius offered the Nazi file to cap a series of claims that the former chief of the Gestapo's Jewish Affairs Section did his work in the Nazi pogrom on orders from above, mostly from the Foreign Office.

The document, a letter from Eberhard von Thadden, Eichmann's counterpart in the Foreign Ministry told of the first 50,000 Jews to be deported from Budapest and said trains and timetables would be managed by the Reich Security Office (SS and Gestapo).

The Israeli prosecution has built a large cornerstone of its case on the Hungarian evacuation to the death camps. This was one phase of the pogrom in which Eichmann was on the scene for months on end and not in his Berlin office.

Servatius constructed an edifice of documents in an effort to show the Nazi Foreign office was the real driving force behind the Jewish extermination campaign and the Gestapo was only an instrument to carry out that policy.

Nearing the end of his case, Servatius led Eichmann through several dozen Nazi files covering Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Greece and Hungary. He was just beginning his case on Hungary when court adjourned for the day.

Eichmann, on the witness stand for the 10th day, eagerly clutched at every opportunity to confirm those portions which linked the Foreign Office to the mass slaughter measures.

Servatius produced a file in which the German consulate in Rome reported personally to Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop in the fall of 1943 that SS Maj. Gen. Hubert Kappler had been "commissioned to deport 8,000 Jews from Rome to upper Italy where they will be liquidated."

Miss Joyce Ann Green and David Stewart were united in marriage Saturday evening, June 24, at 7:30 o'clock at a double ring ceremony in the Green Valley Methodist Church at Shippingport by the Rev. David Dayen.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Green of Shippingport and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Stewart of Georgetown.

A white orchid surrounded by white lilies was her bridal bouquet. She observed all the familiar traditions of "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue."

Miss Dorothy Doncum, maid of honor, wore a gown of sea green. It featured a fitted bodice with a tucked V neckline and fitted cummerbund. The bouffant street length harem skirt was dotted with satin bows. Her headpiece was a half hat of organza leaves and circle veil.

They wore identical dresses of yellow organza over white taffeta and variegated yellow cummerbunds accented the waists. Their head pieces were of yellow roses. They wore white gloves, gifts of the bride, and white shoes and carried baskets of gold carnations and yellow snapdragons.

Hemingway

Hemingway had told Cooper he wasn't feeling well, and the late actor replied: "I bet I'll beat you to the barn." Cooper died in May.

Hemingway, son of a physician, was born in Oak Park, Ill., July 21, 1899, married four times and had three sons. His father, Dr. Clarence E. Hemingway, also suffered from high blood pressure and diabetes. He was found dead of a gun wound at his Oak Park home in 1928.

Dr. Carlos Baker of Princeton, a Hemingway scholar, said the father killed himself because of ill health.

Ernest wrote him from Mayo's this spring and said he was suffering from incipient diabetes, kept under control by diet.

"He wrote that his weight had reduced from 220 to 175 pounds and that doctors told him if he kept his weight down he had a good chance of coming back strong," Dr. Baker said.

Dr. Baker said a Hemingway short story, "Fathers and Sons," in which the son is troubled by the father's suicide, was autobiographical.

President Kennedy, a Pulitzer Prize winner himself, said of Hemingway:

"Few Americans had a greater impact on the emotions and attitudes of the American people than Ernest Hemingway. From his first emergence as one of the bright literary stars in Paris during the 20s — as a chronicler of the 'lost generation' which he was to immortalize — he almost single handedly transformed the literature and the ways of thought of men and women in every country in the world."

Hemingway was a rugged outdoorsman even in his youth. After high school Hemingway became a cub reporter for the Kansas City Star, but left soon to become an ambulance driver on the Italian front in World War I.

"A Farewell to Arms," in which Cooper starred when it was made into a movie, was based partially on his war experiences. It was with this novel in 1929 that Hemingway won world renown.

In the Paris of the 1920s, Hemingway became a disciple of Gertrude Stein, who once called him "the lost generation." It was on this theme that Hemingway built his early reputation with his novel, "The Sun Also Rises," in 1926.

Wars always fascinated Hemingway. He entered enthusiastically into the Spanish civil war on the loyalist side.

From this came his brilliant and angry novel, "For Whom the Bell Tolls." Cooper also starred in a movie version of this book.

When World War II broke out, he was again at the front, spending weeks at the regimental headquarters of Col. Charles T. Lanham, later a major general commanding the First Division in Germany. This too resulted in a novel, "Across the River and Into the Trees." Gen. Lanham remembered Hemingway as "enormously brave" through the most dangerous battles.

Hemingway had homes here and in Cuba, where he lived alternately in recent years and wrote "The Old Man and the Sea," which won him a Pulitzer Prize in 1953.

Hemingway lived as lusty a life as any of his fictional characters. When his Nobel Prize was an-

Kuwait

If Iraqi troops crossed Kuwait's frontier, Iraq denied any intent to use force to back up her claim to the sheikdom and urged the council to demand "unconditional and immediate withdrawal" of the British forces.

Britain's Sir Patrick Dean told the council the British force, landed at the request of Sheik Abdullah, would be pulled out as soon as the Kuwait ruler "considers the threat to the independence of his country is over." The council adjourned until Wednesday, subject to recall in the event of a "new emergency."

The British force, strengthened by tanks and artillery, dug into a defensive ring in the sun-parched desert north of Kuwait city.

Marine commandos pegged out nets to camouflage their trucks and gave them some protection from the 115-degree heat and frequent sandstorms.

The Kuwait-Iraq border was reopened Sunday to road traffic from Iraq, but police were still stopping all border-bound traffic from the Kuwait side. The government imposed censorship on all international cables and phone calls including news dispatches.

With British forces to defend him, the ruling sheik stopped issuing guns to Bedouin volunteers he had been arming by the thousands since the crisis was touched off last week by Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's claim.

The sheik told newsmen the British "will remain in Kuwait as long as the crisis lasts. General Kassem will decide how long that will be."

Current estimates suggest that the universe is from 10 to 13 billion years old.

The dog population of America has for the past 35 years been increasing faster than the human population — it having soared 200 per cent, while the human gain has been but 50 per cent. government's petition for an injunction, if need be.

Nearly half of the American merchant marine fleet of about 1,000 passenger ships, freighters and tankers are free to sail despite the continuing strike.

Agreements were signed Sunday with South Atlantic port and Gulf Coast companies with 250 ships. They completed signing with four of the five striking unions, and thus obtained all the types of officers and crewmen required to sail.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the President's brother, joined the patio discussion 15 minutes after the President and Goldberg sat down together.

The attorney general, on the President's instruction, would be the official to initiate court proceedings to obtain an order stopping the walkout on three coasts for 80 days.

In one of two reports to Kennedy, the fact-finding board said some 340 of the 900 ships originally affected by the multiunion strike are now able to operate.

The board headed by David L. Cole, former director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said the strike "has presented a complex and confused list of issues and disputes between labor and management."

Much more than that is involved, it said, because of the way the shipping business is organized.

"Much of the difficulty has come from the intense rivalry among the five unions involved and from the differences in the economic interests of the various employer organizations," the board told Kennedy.

The board noted the Taft-Hartley law prohibits any recommendations. Neither its report on the character of the dispute nor the collective bargaining efforts that have produced some agreements included specific conclusions on the strike's impact on the nation's health and safety.

Other members of the group are former Judge Samuel Rosenman of the New York State Supreme Court and James J. Healy, a Harvard professor.

In its summary of the dispute, the board referred to complicating factors with the comment that "Positions of the parties have changed considerably from time to time on many of the issues since first submitted to us in their original statements."

All told, the nation's 22 million dogs represent $500 million a year on such items as food, clothing, shelter, training, recreation, and medical care.

With British forces to defend him, the ruling sheik stopped issuing guns to Bedouin volunteers he had been arming by the thousands since the crisis was touched off last week by Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's claim.

The sheik told newsmen the British "will remain in Kuwait as long as the crisis lasts. General Kassem will decide how long that will be."

Current estimates suggest that the universe is from 10 to 13 billion years old.

Crucible Hikes Price On Nickel Steel Items

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Crucible Steel Co. of America today hiked the base price of all nickel-bearing stainless steels, effective with shipments Wednesday.

The changes result from an increase of approximately 10 per cent in the price of nickel announced last Friday by International Nickel Co., Crucible said.

The price hike announced by Crucible on more commonly used grades ranges from 1/2 cent a pound to 2 1/4 cents a pound.

Porches In Comeback

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Porches are making a comeback.

The reason: A porch is a delightful place to relax in rocking chair or hammock as you listen to the birds and watch the summer rain. It is utilitarian.

A porch answers a multitude of needs. It's a place to hold a child's party, feed your guests, pen small fry as they play or sit and chat when the house is roasting and rain keeps you off the lawn. It's an ideal place to serve family meals whether you build it front, back or on the side of the house.

The do-it-yourselfer should find a porch easy to build, adds little to the taxes and may not even require a building permit.

A roofed porch floor usually is of a softwood such as southern pine.

If the floor is not roofed over or not well ventilated, it should be floored with decay-resistant wood such as redwood or southern cypress. Square edged boards laid with tight joints can be used. There may be a little shrinkage.

SHED ROOFS are usual for porches. Methods of bracing roofs vary, but directions may be obtained at lumber yards or from public libraries. Rafters, joints and studs make it all sound complicated but it really isn't for one who has had a little home building experience.

Asbestos shingling is about the easiest to handle. Slaters require cutting with a special knife, a skill best left to professional roofers.

Terneplate often is used on low-pitched porch roofs but it too should be applied by an experienced roofer or metal worker. It requires painting to keep from rusting.

A foundation for a porch usually is posts of stone laid in mortar and poured concrete. Wood often is used as piers for porches, but eventually the porch will sag.

It is easy to use screening. But firm screening is best for a no-sag look. Decide whether you'd like the porch to be a combination glass and screen porch eventually.

Glass offers the opportunity to use the porch on cool days, and perhaps even through cold weather with the addition of heat. If you want to use glass windows, the method of applying the screening will be different, even though

IF THE PORCH is tiny, there are many ways of giving it the illusion of space and more interest can be added without investing a fortune. Ivy-covered wall paper combined with pots of real geraniums is a charming touch. The brick facings and brick faced wall papers may lend a terrace look to a porch. There are shutters you can buy by the yard. The shutters are printed on stick-on vinyl plastic in a three-dimensional effect. You can a pply it to plywood panels for special shutter effect. These may be used on the porch at windows, perhaps with window boxes for unusual effects.

Beat the egg white with a pinch of cream of tartar until foamy, then gradually beat in one-quarter cup of finely granulated sugar; continue beating until very stiff. Here Are Some Thoughts On Roofless Sitting Room

PORTLAND, Ore. — Modern home owners who clamor for more living space on their lots are taking a good look at the garden for possible habitation.

Any why not the garden? Sunlit and flower scented, the garden is the ideal place to develop a charming sitting room.

Locate the roofless room in a far corner of the yard, away from the telephone's jangle and the hurry-scurry of the house. Then, to provide needed privacy from neighboring yards, encircle your garden retreat with a fence built in an open-end U.

Height of the fence depends on the individual situation, though more than a six-foot height generally is unnecessary. For style, try a solid board pattern. Solid board fences are easy to build, effective as garden walls, and are always handsome.

Rough fir 1-by-4s are a favorite for the solid fence. Space them a quarter inch apart to allow breezes to circulate and to produce interesting shadow patterns.

The 1-by-4s can be mounted on a framework of fir 4-by-4s, with posts spaced at four-foot intervals.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I renew the seal in small jar lids?

A. Cut some disks of the required size from some empty cardboard milk containers. These will be just the right thickness, are well waxed, and will serve the purpose much better than several layers of ordinary waxed paper.

Q. How can I remove old wax from my hardwood floors?

A. By applying carbon tetrachloride or turpentine with a soft, clean cloth. Remove the softened wax, go over the floor with a cloth wrung out of soap- and-water solution, then rinse.

Q. How can I soften brown sugar and make it easier to measure?

A. By placing it in a flat baking dish and placing in the oven for a few minutes. Watch it closely, however, to avoid burning!

What's new on the market?

The product — a power block plane. It weighs only 4½ pounds and can be held in one hand.

The manufacturer's claim — that it is a new concept in planing because it not only is faster than its non-powered predecessors, but does a wider variety of operations, including edge planing, beveling, rabbeting and surface planing.

The product — an all-purpose masonry kit. It includes all the materials and tools needed for a cement job and is packaged in its own plastic mortar box.

The manufacturer's claim — that its key ingredient is a unique, pre-blended masonry product requiring no additive but water and that it will bond to cement, stone, brick, flagstone and steel.

The product — a spray designed to prevent mildew.

The manufacturer's claim — that it kills spores instantly, stops mildew before it starts, ends odor and will prevent mildew formation for an entire season.

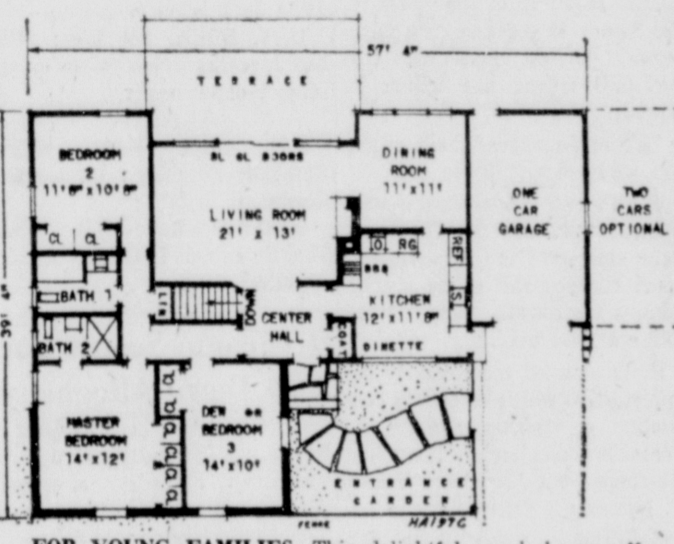

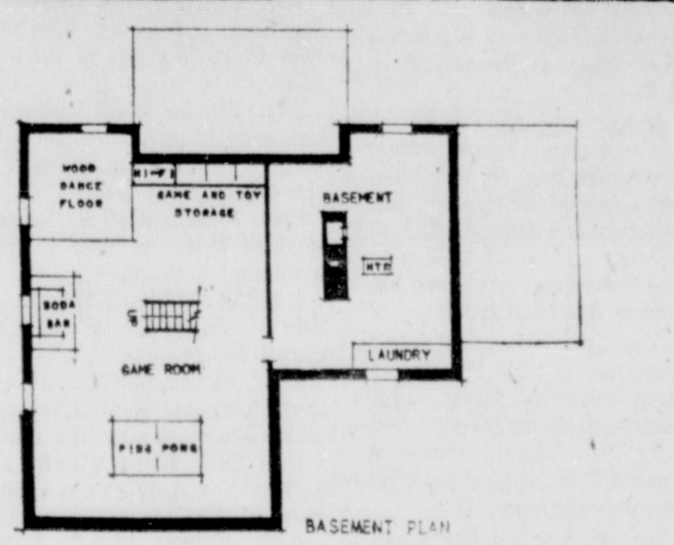

The product — a full-sized, in-the-ground swimming pool especially designed to be installed by the do-it-yourselfer.

The manufacturer's claim — that a special vinyl liner in this pool eliminates the necessity of painting or scraping each year and that this liner is guaranteed in writing for 10 years.

The product — a new line of face brick available in eight colors: white, salmon, pink, red, tan, yellow and green.

The manufacturer's claim — that this silica brick cuts cleanly, is easier to handle and, because it is precision molded under 65 tons of pressure, has mechanical properties superior to those of common clay brick.

The product — a butyl rubber roof coating.

Under-Roof Heat
Can Be Reduced
With White Paint

AP Newsfeatures

Question: Our house has a dark green asphalt shingle roof. I have heard that under-roof temperatures can be reduced considerably by painting the roof white. Is this true and, if so, what kind of paint should I use?

Answer: Because white reflects much of the sun's heat, it is true that roofs painted white reduce ordinary under-roof temperatures. One estimate (by the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association) is that these temperatures can be cut by as much as 20 per cent when a black asphalt shingle roof is painted white.

It is important that a solvent-thinned paint is not used for this purpose, however, since the solvent will dissolve the material and cause it to bleed through the paint. For asphalt-type roofs and for asbestos-cement shingles, use a white exterior latex or water-thinned paint.

The life of paint on a roof usually is shorter than on a vertical surface, such as a wall. At least two coats should be put on, using a long-handled roller or a sprayer. This additional information for

Outdoor Concrete Steps
Will Do The Job Better

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

Almost all country houses or summer cottages have one or more outdoor stairs or steps.

Those made of wood are a source of everlasting maintenance, as it seems that the first part of a building to weather out is the steps.

Substantial steps can be cast out of concrete. When properly done, they last for a lifetime and require no maintenance. Steps of this type can be cast over banked earth, if it is solid and well settled, and the weight of the unit is sufficient to eliminate any danger from frost.

The form required for casting steps is simple: It consists of two side pieces cut according to the height and depth wanted for the steps; a back and front piece are nailed into the face of the sides and fronts are set across each step. The entire form should be well braced with stakes.

The mix of concrete used should be one of cement to two of sand and three of gravel or crushed stone. The mix should be as dry as possible to reduce slumping. The form is filled behind the first step and well tamped and puddled and the filling continued upward.

If the mix is as dry as it should be, there is no danger of the upper portion slumping down and bulging out of the top of the first step.

Dress Rehearsal For A Space Shot

While it's generally conceded that the most spectacular event in television history was the launching of the first American astronaut into space, it was, in the words of TV men, "just a dress rehearsal" for the second shoot during the week of July 15.

But a first is a first, and Marie Torre, though it's doubtful that any future launching could possibly match the inherent drama of the initial take-off, it must be said for the TV networks that they are approaching the next chapter in the "Project Mercury" story without thought for cost and with the same tender regard accorded a Sir Laurence Olivier epic.

The logistics of broadcasting's preparations for the "pool" coverage are appalling to all but a comparative handful of TV producers and students of engineering, so we'll forego details of those indescribably complex network plans in favor of what the viewer may expect: In short, a view of the space flight that'll be the next best thing to being in the cockpit.

FOR THE VIEWER, a major advantage over the first launching will be the ability to "see" almost everything that the astronaut—either Lt. Col. John H. Glenn or Capt. Virgil Grissom—sees and feels during the flight.

This, according to ABC science news editor Jules Bergman, will be achieved through pictorial representation or a simulation (on film) of the navigational journey.

Also, says Bergman, the success of the first launching so vividly demonstrated the value of TV-radio coverage to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as well as to President Kennedy and all Washington, that "cooperation" has been heightened. The broadcasting people will be permitted to post cameras and microphones where they weren't allowed last time.

As noted by CBS, which will coordinate the "pool" at Cape Canaveral, the networks seek to place live television cameras inside Mercury Control and inside the blockhouse.

An official request has also been made to transmit, live, the Mercury astronaut's reports to the Cape from his capsule during the flight.

A FAULTY CAMERA prevented viewers from seeing the recovery of Alan B. Shepard, Jr., so measures are being taken to ensure against such a recurrence. While motion picture camera crews cover the astronaut's arrival downrange, a silent, automatic film camera, lashed to the underside of the main recovery helicopter and triggered by the co-pilot Saturday.

will record the astronaut as he is picked out of the water. Aside from the story's being another important chapter in America's space program, it ought to provide a welcome respite from the never-ending flow of summer reruns.

DURWARD KIRBY, Garry Moore's reliable and talented sidekick these many years, has won the assignment of host on "Candid Camera," replacing Arthur Godfrey, beginning Oct. 1. Kirby will of course continue with Moore.

The title of the fall ABC series fashioned after "The Untouchables" has been changed from "The Corrupters" to "Target: Corrupters." A sop to the FCC campaign against violence? Humorist S. J. Perelman, until now a TV holdout, has released his "Acres and Pains" to Ziv-United Artists for a TV series. Based on Perelman's career as a gentleman farmer in Bucks County, Pa., the series will depict the vivid assaults of nature and natives on an author "with a high heart, a flask of citronella, and a fork for toasting marshmallows." The Hazel Bishop cosmetics firm is seeking damages of $9 million from American Broadcasting-Paramount Theaters on the claim that for the first time in 10 years the company was unable to advertise its products on national TV during the peak cosmetic sales months of January through April with a resultant severe loss. We're not surprised that the networks have not responded to the FCC invitation to appear now at the public hearings to "answer" any of the anti-TV testimony. It's a back-handed invitation, if we ever heard one!

Woman Gets Sedative After Amnesia Claim

A woman who claimed she was an amnesia victim when she was found wandering in a downtown alley Saturday afternoon was given a sedative and sent home after examination by a physician, police said.

She is Mrs. Helen Mae Spears, 45, of LaCrosse, who was found in Peach Alley near City Hall by Lt. Thomas A. Walker. Mrs. Spears told the lieutenant she was en route to the police station. He helped her to headquarters, but when he asked her name, she said she could not remember and said she was an amnesia victim, the lieutenant said.

However, she remembered having a disagreement with her husband and said he had struck her. Lt. Walker said. She was taken to City Hospital, where she was given a sedative and sent home, police said.

Ohio Posting Steady Toll Over Holiday

Traffic	17
Boating	1
Drownings	5
Miscellaneous	7
Total	30

As of midnight Sunday, 48 hours remained in the Fourth of July holiday weekend. And if the traffic death rate in Ohio continues as it has been for the previous 54 hours, one person will die on the state's highways about every four hours of the remaining 48.

That would give Ohio a 102-hour holiday period traffic toll of 26, exactly the number forecasted by the Department of Highway Safety.

The latest count by the Associated Press showed that at least 17 persons met death on the state's streets and roads since 6 p.m. Friday. Four of them died Sunday.

And early today, shortly after midnight, two baby sisters were killed and six other persons injured in a rear-end auto collision near Springfield, and a Cadiz woman died in a two-car collision in that city.

In addition, warm weather has been a factor in turning out water sport fans, at least seven of whom drowned in swimming or non-boating type accidents. Four of those drownings occurred Sunday.

Boating has claimed one life.

Five miscellaneous deaths also have been recorded. Three of them involved electrocutions, and two victims were hit by trains.

Two men were shocked fatally when they removed an iron casing from a newly-drilled water well in Trumbull County and it touched a power line 20 feet in the air. And a Jackson youth was electrocuted by a high tension wire he ascended a power pole while trying to impress a girl friend with his climbing ability.

The worst accident—in terms of lives lost—occurred near Delaware just before midnight Saturday. A Marysville couple and a Delaware youth, the only occupants of two cars involved in a near head-on collision, all perished.

For comparative purposes, the AP made a check over a similar, but non-holiday, 44-day period two weekends ago. That survey showed 15 traffic deaths, 4 boating fatalities, 6 drownings not involving boats and 7 miscellaneous deaths in Ohio.

In 1957, the last time a 44-day Fourth of July weekend was observed, 31 persons were killed in Ohio traffic accidents.

Since 1956 when the Department of Highway Safety started keeping such records, the highest Ohio traffic toll for this holiday was the 34 recorded last year over a 34-day period.

Violence Mars Strike Of Pittsburgh Bakers

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Windows of four bakery trucks were smashed Sunday afternoon as violence broke out in the two-day old strike of some 500 bakers against four bakeries.

An official of the Ward Baking Co. said pickets rushed at the trucks and broke windshields when the drivers began to leave the plant in the tractor-trailer rigs.

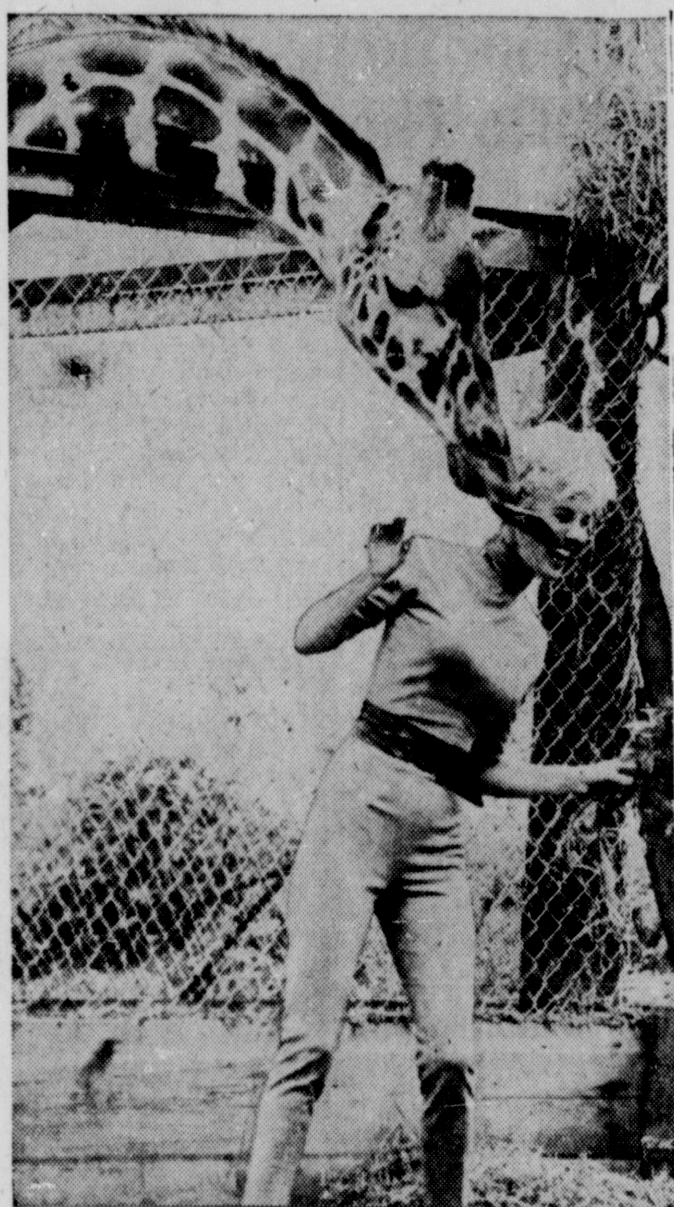

Management and labor representatives met yesterday afternoon with no report of progress, and no further talks have been slated.

The bakers, members of Local 12 of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers, struck on Saturday following expiration of their old contracts at the Ward Baking Co.; Braun Baking Co. National Biscuit Co., bread division; and Baur Brothers.

Hoffa Blasts Kennedys On Election Eve

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Swinging jazz bands and hijinks set the stage today for a special union convention to re-elect James R. Hoffa, 48, to a new five-year term as Teamsters president.

Hoffa, conducting a flamboyant campaign against phantom opposition, fired off verbal broadsides against the Kennedy administration and the AFL-CIO while gearing up the 1.7 million-member Teamsters for an even bigger role in American labor.

The 2,000 convention delegates were due to hoist Hoffa's salary from $50,000 to $75,000 and rubber stamp his bid for a more than $10-million hike in annual dues funds allotted to run Hoffa's Washington headquarters.

In what sounded like a call to war against other labor unions, Hoffa said he'd use part of the money to organize new members in jurisdictional fields that AFL-CIO unions are letting lie dormant.

"If the Teamsters don't organize, we're dead," Hoffa said.

The former grocery warehouseman said he and the Teamsters have emerged from a barrage of court charges and crime investigations stronger and more militant than ever.

Hoffa assailed the Kennedy administration which he said is conducting a vendetta against the Teamsters and unions generally. He singled out Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg for special criticism. Hoffa said they have a swarm of agents here surveying the convention proceedings and even buttonholing delegates to try to interfere with Hoffa's reelection.

The special election is required as a final step to let Hoffa get out from the unusual mentorship arrangement that grew out of a court challenge of his initial 1957 election as Teamsters president. That election was challenged as rigged.

2 U.S. Churches Finish Plans For Historic Merger

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — They've finally made it.

After 21 years of negotiations, referendums, lawsuits, delays and other preliminaries, representatives of two branches of American Protestantism met today to seal their historic merger.

"We've reached the climax of our years of planning," said the Rev. George C. Kirk, a Congregational Christian pastor of Muskegon, Mich.

The new church, whose constitution is to be declared in force here Tuesday, is the United Church of Christ.

It combines Congregational Christian churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Church, the first church merger in the United States to unite denominations of different structure and origin.

"The spirit of unity here is beyond anything that has preceded it," Dr. Kirk said. "All the debates and difficulties have faded."

Approximately 750 delegates and visitors gathered for opening of the new church's general synod with the Rev. Dr. Abraham Akaka, of Honolulu, leading a special service of prayer for its future.

9 Toronto Scouts End Trip Down Allegheny

TORONTO — Nine members of Boy Scout Troop 149 arrived in Pittsburgh Saturday afternoon, winding up a seven-day trip in four canoes down the Allegheny River from Warren, Pa.

The group was met at Pittsburgh by members of the Men's Brotherhood of the First Presbyterian Church. Jim Voorhees was in charge of the group, which traveled up to 35 miles a day.

The boys reported spotting wildlife along the banks, including a deer with a fawn, a black bear, an eagle, a blue heron and many ducks.

Turnpike Record Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A record has been set on the Ohio Turnpike for the most revenue taken in one day. The turnpike commission said the amount—$112,137—was reached Saturday when 73,058 vehicles used the toll road.

Bills Awaited In Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A formidable list of 142 bills ready for floor action awaits state senators when they return to their desks Wednesday.

The House has at least 22 pending.

That doesn't count bills and resolutions which will be recommended out of committee. There are a number.

Nor, in the Senate's case, does it count the $119.8 million additions and betterments (A & B) bill for public buildings, which has not been acted upon by the House.

Just like a great many of the 1,710 bills introduced this session, many of these pending measures don't stand a chance. But there are enough to make some lawmakers wonder if the 104th General Assembly can wind up working sessions this week.

Legislators will get a late start because of the Fourth of July holiday, anyway. As soon as they return Wednesday, a conference committee of three senators and three representatives will set about the task of reconciling the Senate and House versions of the $2 billion appropriations bill.

Leaders in both houses hope the committee will be ready to offer its version to both chambers by the end of the week. Both Senate and House must concur before it can be sent to Gov. Michael V. DiSalle. The governor is contending that the state lacks funds to meet its bills and obligations until the legislature supplies an appropriation enactment.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Ever since I read about the first American's being shot into outer space I've been trying to get my husband to volunteer.

The reason: In the 22 years I've known him he has not been able to get along with one person on this earth. Perhaps somebody on the moon might suit him.

His beliefs are as follows:

1. Women were put on this earth to satisfy the whims and desires of men.
2. Children should open their mouths only to eat and say, "May I?" or, "Thank you."
3. Religion is a racket.
4. Money can do anything. It can give you prestige, power, respectability, plus all the comforts worth having.
5. People are no darned good. Everybody is out to take everybody else. The smart guy is the one who gets his knife in first. I'm sure, Ann, that he belongs out of this world. If Uncle Sam will take him I'd be very happy to let him go. — MRS. NOTHING.

Dear Mrs. Nothing: I don't think Uncle Sam could take him. He sounds too sick to make the trip.

The Scorekeeper

Dear Ann: One sentence in your column recently convinced me that not only do you know the score but you know who's playing — and how some of that playing got started.

I refer to your answer to the mother whose 18-year-old son quit high school because he had to marry a 16-year-old girl. You suggested the possibility that it isn't always the fellow who is to blame for getting the girl in trouble. I know from experience that some girls are so aggressive it's unbelievable.

I'm not bragging because I'm not an especially handsome guy and I'm certainly not the type that women go crazy over but I recall a few experiences of my own when I was of high school age. As I look back, it gives me the screaming meemies.

The Lord is my witness when I say I remember three girls who were under 18. They took over and that was that. I was luckier than the guy named Al but it could have been me in Al's shoes. — HORSESHOE JACK.

All In The Family

Dear Ann: I met a boy last year whom I like a lot. My sister is married to his brother. My Dad doesn't like my sister's husband and he takes it out on Ron. Last night he said, "I wish you'd stop seeing that jerk. One kid from that crazy family is enough."

Ann, I'm only 17, and Ron is 18. I certainly am not thinking of marriage. I don't even want to go steady. All I want to do is date him without worrying that Dad will insult him to his face. Will you please say a word to my father through the paper? —NO HOPE.

Dear No Hope's Father: If you want to make sure both daughters have the same in-laws, just continue to knock the kid.

Nothing makes a fellow quite so attractive to a girl as being forced to defend him against her parents.

2-Man Organization

Third Party's Rule Felt In Congressional Halls

WASHINGTON (AP)—There is a third party in the House of Representatives.

This party is not a household name across the country, like Republican or Democratic, but its existence is well known to members of Congress and those who watch them at work.

The party doesn't have a name at all, and has only two members—Rep. H. R. Gross of Iowa and Rep. Clare Hoffman of Michigan.

In the record books they are Republicans but on the floor of the House they follow their own rules. Over the years they have come to speak of themselves as "the only members of our party," and they are recognized as such by Democrats and other Republicans.

"Our objective is efficiency and economy," Hoffman said recently. "What FDR said in 1932 and promptly forgot."

Hoffman is one of the most noticeable members of the House. He is 85 years old, tall, hawk-faced, white-thatched and overwhelmingly articulate. Rarely at a standstill, he paces the Republican side of the chamber, ready with a "Will the gentleman yield?" whenever the fancy takes him, which it often does.

Gross is unlike his flamboyant party-mate but makes his presence felt. He is slight, has a receding hairline, deesses somberly.

The House meets at noon and by 12:10 almost every day the corridors and offices ring with the bells of a quorum call. It is H. R. Gross, who believes a majority of the members should be in attendance when important bills are being debated. Throughout the vast warren of the House Office Buildings, congressmen scurry to his summons.

His forte is to stand four-square against what he regards as excessive spending. He crouches quietly at the end of the Republican committee table, and if he thinks there is a chance to score for his cause, or clip a million off a bill, he leaps to his feet with parliamentary weapons at the ready.

Gross did it again last week in even more spectacular fashion.

An obscure resolution to create a fancy special flag for members of Congress was called up by Rep. Samuel N. Friedel, D-Md., who apparently wanted to fly it from the flagstaff of his pleasure boat.

Gross leaped to the fray like a shark scenting blood, firing a series of sarcastic questions at Friedel and another member who took up the battle. Finally, Gross shouted, "This is utter, unmitigated foolishness."

Speaker Sam Rayburn, irritated by the uproar, tried to dispose of it by having Friedel withdraw the resolution. Gross refused to go along and by a parliamentary maneuver forced a roll call vote.

Many hastily summoned members were not clear what they were voting for, and some later changed their votes. The flag resolution was voted down 270 to 108.

How did the Gross-Hoffman party start? Well, it's all in fun, but Hoffman has this explanation: "It goes back to the time when Gross used to rise to make a point of order or a point of no quorum. Some of the Republican leaders used to rush down there and in my opinion they tried to intimidate him. They gathered around him publicly, arguing with him. I considered it a humiliation.

"So when they began to put the heat on Gross, why, I'd object. I didn't want to see him kicked around. And you notice he isn't anymore."

In truth, no one seems to get irked by Gross' quorum calls; they are accepted as one of the facts of existence by other members, like dawn, April showers and appropriation bills.

Hoffman sometimes leaves a committee meeting with the explanation that he has to hold a caucus with Gross over their party tactics.

Actually, he says, "We play it by ear—there's nothing fixed or formal."

Gross has no dramatic explanation. "We just have a lot of fun," he says. "With all the frustra-

Reds Hold 2-Game Lead By Knocking Off Braves Twice

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Cincinnati Reds, who did not have a single player named to the starting lineup for next week's All-Star game, today led the National League by two full games.

The Reds swept a doubleheader against the Milwaukee Braves Sunday, winning the first, 8-5, on Gordon Coleman's 3-run homer off Warren Spahn in the 13th in-

Pirates Win Twin Bill From Giants

San Francisco Giants 7-6 on an eighth-inning rally and 9-0 on Bobby Shantz five-hit pitching in a game cut to 6½ innings by rain. The Chicago Cubs continued to slug away with four homers but it took an eighth-inning pinch sing-

Boyer's glove to edge St. Louis 10-9. Coleman, the homer hero of the first-game win over Milwaukee, could be a prime Cincinnati candidate for an All-Star job. It was his 16th of the season, breaking up a 4-hour, 12-minute game that was spiced by a fight between Milwaukee's Eddie Mathews and the Reds' Jim O'Toole. Frank Robinson also would be a sure-fire qualifier in Cincinnati. His homer that won the second game was his 20th of the year. Drysdale hit his winning homer off Art Mahaffey who took over

Maris Blasts Halfway To Ruth's Record With 29 And 30

Rogers Hitting Moves Yanks One Game From Lead

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
Roger Maris hit his 29th and 30th home runs Sunday as the New York Yankees moved within one game of league-leading Detroit by bombing Washington 13-4 while Baltimore was beating the Tigers 6-3 on Jim Gentile's grand slam homer.

The two homers put Maris eight games ahead of Babe Ruth's 1927 pace when he set the all-time record of 60. Mickey Mantle hit No. 28. Moose Skowron slammed No. 17 and Elston Howard hit No. 4 for the Yanks.

The lively ball was bouncing to all corners of Fenway Park in Boston where 15 of the 28 hits were for extra bases in Cleveland's 12-6 victory over the Red Sox in 10 innings. That's right, 10 innings. Cleveland scored six in the 10th.

Gentile, who set a major league record by hitting successive homers with the bases loaded in the Twins' park May 9 hit his third slammer of the year to beat Detroit. The slugger finished the day with 76 runs batted in on just 71 hits. Phil Regan, who gave up the homer to Gentile, was the loser and Chuck Estrada the winner.

Los Angeles took another game from the Chicago White Sox 8-3, scoring six runs in the first two innings for their second straight series victory. Steve Binko's three-run homer off loser Juan Pizarro in the first got the Angels off winging.

Reserve outfielder Chuck Essegian, relief pitcher Frank Funk and Tito Francona each drove in two runs for Cleveland in that six-run 10th inning. Earlier Bubba Phillips hit two homers and Don Dillard and Willie Kirkland one each for the Indians. Gary Geiger and pitcher Gene Conley homered for Boston.

Kansas City broke a six-game losing streak by edging Minnesota 8-7 on Dick Howser's single with the bases full in the ninth.

Rookie Jim Donohue was the winner for the Angels. He struck out eight, walked none and allowed only three hits in five relief innings. Two of the hits were Roy Sievers' 19th and 20th homers. Al Smith also homered for the Sox and George Thomas and Binko for the Angels, who have won eight of their last 14.

Skowron became the first man to hit three balls into the distant leftfield bleachers since Yankee Stadium was built when he hammered a pitch by Johnny Klippstein into the area in the eighth with one on. Only 13 balls have been hit into those bleachers. Mantle's homer was a tape measure job deep into the upper deck in right. Despite the heavy bombing, Bud Daley needed relief help from Luis Arroyo in the ninth inning of a hot, muggy afternoon. Pete Burnside was the Senators' loser.

NEW YORK YANKEES' (left-to-right) Roger Maris, Mickey Mantle and Tony Kubek celebrate a 13-4 victory over the Washington Senators Sunday in the Yankee Stadium clubhouse. Maris clubbed his 29th and 30th. All three have been voted to represent the American League in the All-Star game. (UPI Telephone)

Indians Put Win Streak Of Three Games Together

BALTIMORE (AP)—Cleveland has put together a three-game winning streak for the first time in almost a month. The Indians even are hitting home runs in their new string of successes.

der, pitched five innings but the victory went to Harvey Haddix over Mike McCormick. Shantz was helped by six unearned runs in the sixth inning while he blanked the Giants in the shortened game.

The Tribe capped the three-game sweep at Boston by coming from behind Sunday, cracking a 6-6 tie with a six-run burst in the 10th inning. The 12-6 decision featured four home runs—two by Bubba Phillips and solo shots by Don Dillard and Willie Kirkland.

Ashburn's winning single at Chicago followed two home runs each by pitcher Glen Hobbie and catcher Sam Taylor as the Cubs won their eighth in the last 11 games. They have hit 24 home runs in the last eight games.

Frank Funk, who helped his own cause in the 10th frame with a two-run single, won his ninth game in 13 decisions. He hurled four scoreless innings.

Bob Hale, pinch-hitting for Johnny Temple, drove in the tying run in the eighth. He bounced a grounder to second that took a high hop off the outer rim of the infield grass and caromed off Pumpsie Green's glove. The hit may have been tainted—but the Indians were happy to get it.

The victory put the third-place Indians five games back of the league-leading Detroit Tigers, who hold a one-game advantage over New York.

The 10th inning rally started with two out. Phillips—who had four hits in four trips—drilled a double off the left field wall. He moved to third in a wild pitch. Then relief hurler Arnold Earley lost his control and walked Vic Power and Woodie Held on eight straight pitches, loading the bases.

Boston routed starter Jim (Mudcat) Grant and took a 5-1 lead after two innings. The Indians still trailed by 6-2 going into the seventh, but tied it on two-run rallies in the seventh and eighth innings.

When Earley tossed two balls to Chuck Essegian, he was lifted for Dave Hillman. Essegian picked out the second pitch from Hillman and knocked it cleanly into left field. That scored two runs seventh came on back - to - back and was enough for the ball game.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Reasoning Starts Early In Life

When does the baby begin to think and reason? G. Stanley Hall, the most famous child psychologist at the beginning of this century, said there was not much reasoning before adolescence. About 1912, E. L. Thorndike questioned this. He cited a study published by H. W. Brown (Ped. Dr. Garry Meyers Sem. Vol. 2, 1892) giving evidence that, during the first few years of their life, children make inductions and deductions, after the same fashion as adults Thorndike concluded: "From these facts it is clear that, as regards the mechanics of the reasoning powers, children differ from adults only as adults differ among themselves."

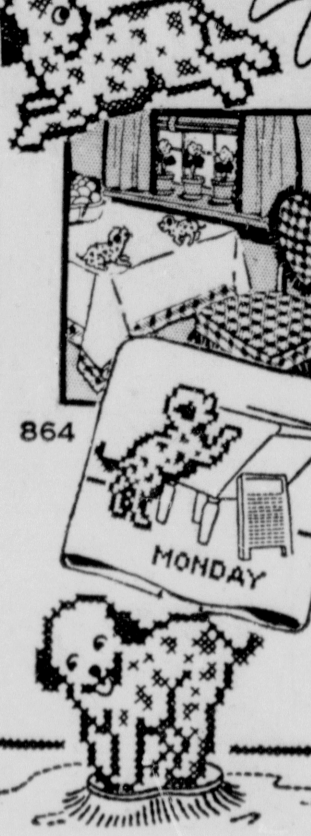

BROWN AND Thorndike inspired me to keep elaborate notes on my own children during their infancy. I recorded obvious evidences of reasoning in their remarks, questions and actions. Here are a few samples of these notes: (The day indicates the age of the child when observation was recorded.) (178th day) J looked back and forth from my face to my hand and razor strop as I sharpened the razor. (353) Failing to make a sound on the piano himself, he put A's hand upon the keys. (479) Holding up his injured hand he pointed to the carriage which caused it. (610) Failing to reach a desired object on the table, he ran directly to a box filled with toys, emptied them, carried the box to the table, inverted it and got what he wanted. (Neither this nor any other way was ever used to get objects from the table.) (915) WHILE Mother was ill she asked J, "What will Daddy do with you for that?" "Daddy kool," was the response. (1046) "That dog like a fox." (1067) At the sight of his cart he said, "When I go for a walk again I tell Daddy I tired and then Daddy take me in this cart." (1134) Wagon all wet; must have rained last night. (1172) Given an orange he said, "I am going to suck it; bees suck honey from flowers." (1228) After I had filled my fountain pen he said, "How do you get it all wet at kool? You take no ink along." (1287) When he saw an old dishpan in a vacant lot he said, "I guess there was house here once and they threw it out the window." (1365) When told the door of a certain school room was locked, "to keep people from taking things," he asked, "How can anybody get anything if the outside door of the building is locked?" (1366) HE noted that a certain lady's hat was like A's and that A's blouse was like his mother's. Near the end of his fourth year he said of a certain balking mule, "That mule like George's horse—not because it looks like it, but because it won't pull." Any parent who will take the trouble can also easily observe early evidences of reasoning in the very young child. More on this tomorrow. (My bulletin, "Letting Baby and Tot Learn," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.)

Twin Sisters Die In Ohio Collision

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Twin sisters about 3 years old were killed early today, shortly after midnight, in a rear-end auto collision that injured six other persons. Dead are Joanni and Carol Harless, daughters of Mrs. Alice Harless of Springfield. Mrs. Harless, 21, was one of those injured in the crash on Ohio 72 about a mile south of here. The driver of the twins' car was not immediately known. Besides Mrs. Harless, four others in that car also were hurt. They were identified by the Ohio Highway Patrol as Mrs. Mildred Duncan, 30; Elmer Garrett, 2; James Lucy, 27; and Mrs. Twana Thompson, 20. All are from Springfield except Lucy, an airman at Clinton County Air Force Base near Wilmington. The driver of the car hit from behind was Wilfred Potter, 16, also of Springfield and also injured. He was taken with the others to Springfield City Hospital.

Merger Planned For Canton Firm

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Directors of Hercules Motors Corp. here have voted unanimously to sell their firm's assets to the Hupp Corp. in Cleveland. A joint announcement said the sale is subject to the approval of Hercules stockholders at a special meeting. The 46-year-old Hercules company makes diesel, gas, gasoline and liquefied petroleum gas engines for civilian and military markets in the United States and abroad. Hupp Corp. manufactures such products as air conditioning, refrigeration, household appliances and heating equipment in 14 plants in nine states and Canada. Under terms of the agreement, 2 per cent shares of Hupp common stock will be exchanged for each share of Hercules common stock. On April 30, 1961, 345,000 shares of Hercules common stock were publicly held.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Can Dieter Shrink The Stomach?

There is a popular controversy as to whether or not you can shrink your stomach by the practice of eating smaller meals. As Voltaire once remarked when asked to discuss a subject, "Delighted, but define your terms." The term "shrink" is misleading. We should rather think in terms of expansion and contraction. The stomach is a muscular organ which is fairly elastic—it has to be. Compare the stomach to a balloon. When considerable food is consumed, the stomach is forced to expand. The continual practice of overeating tends to keep the stomach distended.

ONE OF THE advantages of dieting is that on smaller meals the stomach contracts. According to Dr. Alfred George in his excellent book, "Your Weight and Your Life," the size of the stomach becomes adapted to the smaller meals and the feeling of fullness develops more rapidly. This comfortable feeling of having had enough to eat is believed to be caused by the tension exerted from within on the circular muscle fibers of the stomach. It is then that nature gives the satiety signal. But when this signal is repeatedly ignored, overeating becomes habit. Through long training you then require more food before you feel satisfied. Studies with people who have been on starvation diets show that food capacity does "shrink." Following an extended period on small meals, the participants in the study were unable to eat anything like normal-sized meals, and the amount of food had to be increased very gradually. SUCCESSFUL dieters report a dramatic change in their food capacity. They all describe the empty feeling experienced at the start of a diet. But after a few days or a few weeks, these same dieters begin to feel quite content with their smaller meals. Later on they wonder how they were ever able to eat the amount of food they formerly enjoyed.

Summed up: It's a moot question as to whether or not there is a change in the size of the stomach, for on smaller meals the stomach most certainly contracts. The end result is you do not want so much to eat. The practice of getting up from the table short of that full feeling is the ideal way to shrink your appetite down to size. And that is why dieting gets easier. Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for "Hunger Control Diet" and "Revised Calorie Chart." Address request to Ida Jean Kain in care of this newspaper. Balaguer Given New Backing In Dominican Move

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo's hand-picked President Joaquin Balaguer was given a free hand to name his own cabinet today after 11 of the 12 ministers resigned. But they asked him to keep the policies of the slain dictator. The resignations came after the ruling Dominican Party voted unanimously to back the 53-year-old Balaguer, professor-diplomat turned politician. The defense minister, Maj. Gen. Santos Melido Marte, who was named after Trujillo's assassination May 30, was the only cabinet minister that did not resign. Balaguer did not indicate immediately whether he would accept any or all of the resignations.

Speedy Recovery Set For Marilyn Monroe

NEW YORK (AP)—Marilyn Monroe is reported today to be continuing on her way to a speedy recovery from a gall bladder operation. A spokesman at Polyclinic Hospital, where the surgery was performed Thursday, said the blonde movie star had asked for food Sunday and "that's a very good sign." Her doctor described Miss Monroe's condition as "very satisfactory." She is expected to remain in the hospital a week to 10 days.

License Rush Begins As 12 Get Citations

NEW CUMBERLAND — The citing of 12 motorists at a traffic check Saturday afternoon by Police Chief William Webster has spurred a rush on Village Hall by residents to renew driver's licenses.

City driver's licenses expired at noon Saturday and residents were warned earlier that those who did not file for renewal would be subject to arrest.

Mrs. Mary Lou Newburn, village clerk, said response picked up Saturday and continued this morning. Village Hall, which normally operates on the same holiday schedule as the Hancock County Courthouse nearby, remained open today. The Courthouse is closed today and Tuesday.

Chief Webster cited the 12 motorists, all from New Cumberland, for driving with expired driver's licenses. Two others were cited on different charges. All are scheduled for hearings tonight at 7:30 before Mayor Albert Fucy.

Cited on the driver's license expiration charge were Blaine Channing, Fred Staley, Harry Ivory, Michael Chupa, Jean Newbrough, Donald Skinner, Leonard Powell, Anna Finnicum, Steve Kuzio, Doris Manley, Virgil Pierce and Ralph Heise.

Thomas Mitchell of R. D. 1 was cited for improper registration and Mitchell Shaw, of Steubenville was cited for hazardous driving. Shaw posted $25 bond for a hearing tonight before Mayor Fucy.

Jeromesville Driver Due Hearing Saturday

A Jeromesville area motorist was arrested for driving while under the influence of alcohol by Wellsville police over the weekend.

John D. Shibinski of Jeromesville R. D. 1 was cited Sunday at 2:20 a. m. on 13th St., police said. He is scheduled to receive a hearing Saturday at 10 a. m. before Mayor William J. Shoub.

Richard L. Miller, 1029 Hillcrest Rd., Wellsville, will receive a hearing Wednesday at 10 a. m. before Mayor Shoub on a charge of improper registration.

Miller was arrested Friday night at 10:30 after his car hit the rear of another driven by John C. Fultz, 1717 Clark Ave., Wellsville, at the intersection of Clark and Aten Aves.

LISBON — William Frischkorn of R. D. 1, Wellsville, returned from the Wellsville firemen's parade Friday night to find that someone had stolen 21 chickens and 11 ducks during his absence. Deputy Sheriff Robert Beresford said Frischkorn valued the fowls at $27.50.
